

PETER LOYA

Peter Loya is the Director of Community and Government Relations for Tech Parks Arizona. His responsibilities include managing tenant and employee relations, neighborhood and community relations, educational outreach, workforce development, and fundraising. He is the main point of contact for over 6,000 employees at the UA Tech Park and leads the Tech Cat program which brings together employees from the various companies creating connections and establishing a broader sense of community. He also organizes onsite events including the annual Homecoming at the Tech Park event, bi-annual building luncheons, tours, and Pop-Up Parties at the Park. He also leads the health and wellness activities of the Park in partnership with the YMCA. His day to day activities create a unique atmosphere for employees at the Park making it one of the region's best workplaces.

Mr. Loya brings more than 15 years of professional experience to the Tech Park team and he has experience with customer service, team training, sales experience, logistical planning, and community outreach. He is an active member of the community and volunteers his time with SAAF, Habitat for Humanity, Mobil Meals of Southern Arizona, and many other organizations.

Mr. Loya is a graduate of the University of Arizona with a BS in Psychological Science and a minor in Sociology.
