

DR. NORAH MCRAE

Norah McRae, PhD, is the Associate Provost for Co-operative and Experiential Education and an adjunct professor at the University of Waterloo, Canada, the host institution for the world secretariat WACE.

Dr. McRae is a member of WACE's Executive Council and Global Strategy Council. Through her involvement in work-integrated learning (WIL) she has led strategic program development and research on the development of a quality WIL framework and purposeful work.

Dr. McRae has received awards for her work from Canadian associations (CEWIL 2012, 2014, 2016; CBIE 2020), the American association (CEIA 2020) and the world association (WACE 2017). Dr. McRae has over twenty-five publications.

